Tantalising textures

Herrieden, 19 September 2026

Kitchen design begins with materials and surfaces. Textures, the feel under your fingertips and the interplay of different design features transform every kitchen into something special. New fronts, worktops and handles in the 2027 Schüller collection impress with their outstanding textures, striking designs and multiple planning options – made to suit every kitchen.

The new Prato range spans from classic to modern. Through this five-part Shaker-style front, Schüller has added a surface with distinctive character to its range. Thanks to its special relief pore, it boasts an impressively elegant front texture and a pleasant, high-quality feel. In the sand oak relief pore effect decor, the front blends seamlessly into kitchens designed in a modern country or minimalist Nordic style. The warm shade Toscana walnut relief pore effect sets warm accents and has an alluring Italian charm – ideal for modern kitchen designs and as a contrast to lighter shades.
Through the new Prato range, Schüller demonstrates how Shaker-style fronts adopt and redefine country style. The result is a homely atmosphere brimming with elegance and style.

Textured surfaces

A special touch in the kitchen might be a colour, a handle or a particular unit. Textured fronts don’t just stand out for their appearance but also for their feel. The Sora range adds a plastic front with a 3D texture to the portfolio, perfectly reflecting this principle. The three-dimensional composition is both visible and tangible. In the colours caramel, almond beige and seashell white, the special front texture is combined with shades distinguished by their contemporary character. These subtle colours make the fascinating front surface even more visible.

Worktops with character
Depending on the kitchen fronts and colours, the worktop either takes centre stage or blends subtly into the background. This balance between bold and low-key decors has also been taken into account in the 2027 collection with countless new products joining the existing portfolio.

The minimalist Verona oak effect brings a classic wood decor to the range. The light grain of the worktop and its warm, homely character make it a true all-rounder for countless style combinations.

The portfolio has also been expanded to include stone decor worktops. Four new decors impress with their distinctive, striking patterns that are sure to be a highlight in any kitchen. The premium finish gives the surfaces a special quality and appearance. Decors in onyx black effect in white and grey, marble Gadara effect and marble Toros effect also wow with their vibrant colour gradients.

The new worktops in sandstone effect have a special shimmer that changes their appearance every time you look at them. Depending on where the light falls, matt and gloss areas are visible on the surface, making it look calm and vibrant at the same time. The worktop comes in sandstone anthracite effect and sandstone cream effect decors and has a practical anti-fingerprint coating.

Small details, big effect

As a stylistic element style, handles are often underestimated in kitchen planning, yet they are often the first thing we see. The new shiny chrome handles in a range of designs are guaranteed to attract attention. New knobs and cup handles in onyx black and a stainless steel finish have been added to the collection, and their organic shapes blend in perfectly with the kitchen surroundings.

The 2027 collection includes both contemporary designs and timeless design features that work their magic when combined. Fronts with special textures, low-key or striking worktop decors and elegant new handles result in a holistic design where all components are perfectly coordinated.
